Successful Local Bids

The Child Funeral Charity has received £5,000 from Bath & North East Somerset Council, raised from the recycling of metals reclaimed from Bath's Haycombe crematorium.

The charity helps families pay for a funeral of a baby or child under 16 and provides support with associated costs should the fees not be waived by funeral directors.

The bereavement charity is the latest to benefit from money raised by the recycling of common items like medical pins, metal plates and artificial joints which are retrieved from the cremated remains of a loved one and recycled through a national scheme.

The not-for-profit Recycling of Metals Scheme is run by the Institute of Cemetery and Crematorium Management of which Bath & North East Somerset Council is a member.

Members of the scheme collect the metal from the cremators and the money raised from recycling is divided between ICCM members for distribution among charities.

Last year £15,000 in total was donated by Haycombe Cemetery and Crematorium, in equal amounts to the RUH Forever Friends Appeal, Cruse and The Make a Wish Foundation.

To qualify for donations from the scheme, charities are selected on the basis they have to assist the bereaved or those who are terminally ill.

Any local charities, which meet the criteria can get in touch with staff at Haycombe Cemetery and Crematorium on 01225 396020 or email cemeteries\_crematorium@bathnes.gov.uk

The Next Generation Fund – Power to Change	The Next Generation Fund is a new Power to Change scheme that will provide grants of up to £100,000 to ten community energy groups to work on new business models for community energy in their area. Power to Change is looking for well-established and experienced community energy businesses in England who want to develop innovative business models, building on their past achievements. Projects will need to be complete by June 2021. There will be two application rounds in total. In addition to this round there will be a further call for applications in early 2019. Five community groups will be funded in each round. Each round will consist of three stages:

Stage 1 – Expression of Interest

At the Expression of Interest stage, applicants will be required to describe their achievements and projects to date and the experience, skills and assets they have at their disposal. They will also be asked to indicate the types of community energy business models they wish to explore.

Shortlisted groups will need to attend an interview in the week beginning 28th January. The selected groups will be notified in early February, and will move on to Stage 2, the 'Partnership Phase'.

Stage 2 - Partnership Phase

During the Partnership Phase, the successful groups will be helped to develop a comprehensive energy baseline and local opportunities and constraints map and strategy. From this, they will be supported to finalise their full project proposals.

Research during the Partnership Phase is likely to include

- Detailed socio-demographic mapping;
- A review of local authority and Local Enterprise Partnership policy context;
- Local network constraints and network operator policy research;
- An analysis of existing local energy activity, including Ofgem innovation initiatives;
- A review of transport provision and key transport stakeholders;
- A housing stock analysis and research on key housing stakeholders;
- Support with reviewing the technical performance of existing generation assets, and potential for extensions where connections allow;
- A stakeholder analysis, identifying key local businesses, organisations and people creating an initial 'power map' of potential support for the project.

The partnership phase will also provide an opportunity for the group to review their capacity and governance arrangements and identify any areas where the consortium could provide support for this. Power to Change expects the Partnership Phase to take 2-3 months.

Stage 3 – Project delivery

Project delivery will begin once the Partnership Phase is completed and full project plans have been agreed.

Application forms will be available to download from Monday 19th November.

Charity Checkout – Fundraising Tool	Charity Checkout is a social enterprise that provides online fundraising tools for charities. If you're looking for local grant-making trusts have a look at its Charity Directory. The directory lists registered charities under their county and town headings and the list includes plenty of grant-making trusts. You should be able to access

Charity Reserves	A review by the Charity Commission has shown that less than a quarter of larger charities accurately reported the level of financial reserves they hold in their trustees' annual report. According to the Commission, its findings suggest an incomplete understanding of what reserves are, which it says could lead trustees to make poor decisions about their charity's finances. All registered charities must explain their policy on reserves in their trustees' annual report, and should state the level of reserves held as well as why they are held. Almost all of a sample of 106 charities with an income over £500,000 included at least a reference to their reserves policy in their annual report. However, less than a quarter gave the right reserves figure, based on the information in their accounts. A third of charities failed to include a figure at all, while many trustees appear to believe that reserves are the same thing as total unrestricted funds. Sarah Atkinson, Director of Policy, Planning and Communications at the Charity Commission said: “The public, who generously donate to charity, rightly hold charities to high standards and expect them to manage funds in a way that maximises their benefit to society. As regulator, we therefore expect charities to steward their resources effectively; to protect their charity's future and safeguard the money donated to them by the public or through public funds. Reporting financial information accurately is an essential part of this responsibility, so it's concerning that so few larger charities appear to fully understand what reserves are or how to disclose them correctly. We would also expect auditors and independent examiners to report any concerns they have about the reserves held by charities, especially in light of the collapse of Kids Company.” As well as the report, the Commission has also published guidance to help charities understand what reserves are and how to develop and report on a reserves policy. It will be sending these to all charities in the sample where there were concerns over the absence or accuracy of the reserves figure in their annual reports. https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/charities-and-reserves-cc19

Proposed changes to probate fees – impact on charities	The proposed changes to probate fees announced this week could cost charities £10 million in reduced income, the Institute of Legacy Management has said. On 5th November, the Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Justice Lucy Frazer lay before Parliament new legislation to implement a new, banded structure of fees instead of the current flat fee. Under the proposal fees have been revised to rise to up to 0.5% of the value of the estate. The estate value threshold would rise from £5,000 to £50,000, while for those who do pay, Frazer said that around 80% of estates will pay £750 or less, and all income raised will be spent on running the courts and tribunal service. She stated: “This new banded fee model represents a fair and more progressive way to pay for probate services compared to the current flat fee and reflects our commitment to protecting access to justice by ensuring we have a properly funded and resourced courts system. We are also confident these fees will never be unaffordable. The cost of the fee is recoverable from the estate and executors have several options to fund it.” However, the announcement was met with concern by the Institute of Legacy Management and Remember A Charity among others, who believe the changes could impact heavily on charities by reducing the income they receive from legacies. Matthew Lagden, CEO of the Institute of Legacy Management commented: “The Institute of Legacy Management is deeply concerned by the proposed rise in Probate fees from a flat rate of £215 (£155 if the grant is obtained by a solicitor) to a maximum of £6,000. We welcome the drive to improve the operation of the Court Service and understand the need to balance the interests of taxpayers and Court Service users. However, the new fees would significantly reduce income for charities reliant on legacy gifts, to the tune of £10 million a year, at a time when many charities are struggling to meet increasing demand for their services.” He also asked that consideration be given to introducing a rebate or exemption from the increased fees for charitable estates, which he said would cost the Government relatively little, and would improve the attractiveness of this form of giving. Director of Remember A Charity, Rob Cope, also commented, saying: “The new probate structure will see charitable wills costing – in some cases – thousands of pounds more than they do currently and our concern is that this could deter people from leaving a donation in their will. “While Government expects to generate £185 million from the increased charges by 2022-2023, it is important to remember that charitable bequests are worth

	almost £3 billion a year for good causes. The sector cannot afford to risk losing legacy income. “We will be urging Government to offer a reduction in probate fees for estates that include a charitable gift, helping to mitigate the impact of the fee increase.”

Bath Women's Fund	In collaboration with St John	https://www.stjohnsbath.org.uk/bath-womens-fund/	The Bath Women's Fund was launched in October 2018. Co-founders Emma Beeston and Isobel Michael were inspired to set up the Bath Women's Fund by other Giving Circles. The Fund is supported by a Steering Group and St John's Foundation in Bath. Over 50 women attended the launch event, which also saw them vote on the new fund's structure. The votes indicated that local women would like the Bath Women's Fund to have an annual grant making theme to be chosen by the members at the start of each year and a £50 monthly giving level, with young members giving at £25 per month. Beeston said: "The Bath Women's Fund is a collective response to need and the giving circle will enable donors to pool resources to create more impact together." Men are also welcome to get involved. 			as basic running costs. We know securing core funding can be tough and want to use this programme to help support those doing much needed work in their local communities. People living in areas of disadvantage or who face social issues often get vital support from smaller local groups based within their communities. It is these locally based groups that truly understand the needs of the people they serve and make a huge difference to their lives. However, recent research shows that small and medium sized organisations across the UK are being hit particularly hard by the current economic climate, forcing many to either scale back or dissolve completely. These organisations urgently need core funding to continue their crucial work. There are still many communities in the UK that work in areas of economic and social deprivation and disadvantage and the current economic climate may make this situation worse. Comic Relief wants to recognise the importance of local community organisations and the pivotal role they play across the UK. That is why they have developed this exciting programme to fund organisational costs only and not direct project delivery – Comic Relief hope this goes some way to help ensure organisations continue to sustain themselves and support their local communities. What can you apply for? A grant shall be used to support groups that can

Brexit	The National Council for Voluntary Organisations has produced a report with guidance and information which voluntary sector organisations may find useful when preparing for EU exit.	https://www.ncvo.org.uk/images/documents/policy_and_research/europe/NCVO-Brexit-factsheet.pdf
Lloyds Bank Business and Charity Digital Index 2018 published	The Lloyds Bank Business and Charity Digital Index is the largest measure of digital capability and skills for SMEs and charities. The Index uses a powerful and unique blend of transactional and attitudinal online data to benchmark digital skills and capability of UK organisations, including VCSE organisations.	https://resources.lloydsbank.com/businessdigitalindex/
Charity Digital Code of Practice	The UK's first Charity Digital Code of Practice was published in November 2018. The Code, which aims to help charities improve their digital skills and increase their take up of digital activity, is voluntary and free to access for all charities. It is being funded by Lloyds Banking Group and the Co-op Foundation and managed by a steering group of representatives from across the sector - including the Office for Civil Society.	https://doit.life/charity-digital-code
Charity Reserves	A review by the Charity Commission has shown that less than a quarter of larger charities accurately reported the level of financial reserves they hold in their trustees' annual report. According to the Commission, its findings suggest an incomplete understanding of what reserves are, which it says could lead trustees to make poor decisions about their charity's finances. All registered charities must explain their policy on reserves in their trustees' annual report, and should state the level of reserves held as well as why they are held. Almost all of a sample of 106 charities with an	https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/charities-and-reserves-cc19

	income over £500,000 included at least a reference to their reserves policy in their annual report. However, less than a quarter gave the right reserves figure, based on the information in their accounts. A third of charities failed to include a figure at all, while many trustees appear to believe that reserves are the same thing as total unrestricted funds. Sarah Atkinson, Director of Policy, Planning and Communications at the Charity Commission said: “The public, who generously donate to charity, rightly hold charities to high standards and expect them to manage funds in a way that maximises their benefit to society. As regulator, we therefore expect charities to steward their resources effectively; to protect their charity’s future and safeguard the money donated to them by the public or through public funds. Reporting financial information accurately is an essential part of this responsibility, so it’s concerning that so few larger charities appear to fully understand what reserves are or how to disclose them correctly. We would also expect auditors and independent examiners to report any concerns they have about the reserves held by charities, especially in light of the collapse of Kids Company.” As well as the report, the Commission has also published guidance to help charities understand what reserves are and how to develop and report on a reserves policy. It will be sending these to all charities in the sample where there were concerns over the absence or accuracy of the reserves figure in their annual reports.
Charity Checkout Fundraising Tool	Charity Checkout is a social enterprise that provides online fundraising tools for charities. Charities, Digital Technology and Young People	Charities are failing to use digital technology effectively to help disadvantaged young people, according to a recent report by the think tank NPC. “My Best Life: Priorities for Digital Technology in the Youth Sector” says that many charities using digital technology do not consider the circumstances many disadvantaged people face. The 31-page report is based on 12 months of research with young people experiencing multiple disadvantages in the London borough of Camden. The young people were asked how digital technology could be used to tackle the challenges and opportunities they faced in building better lives for themselves. Common problems were low levels of digital literacy outside social media, insufficient resources to pay for devices except mobile phones and the cost of data on phones. The proposals in the report include developing an app similar to Google Maps that would allow disadvantaged young people to find and review the local support they require, such as mental health services. The report also suggests using chat bots on phones to enable young people to ask questions about simple day-to-day support on issues such as benefits and housing.	https://www.thinknpc.org/publications/my-best-life-priorities-for-digital-technology-in-the-youth-sector/
goDonate	A new digital platform aims to help smaller charities increase the number of donations they receive online with a more simplified donation system. Billed at the ‘next generation donation platform’, goDonate has been designed to improve the online experience for donors and increase the chances of supporters completing the donation process. The number of fields donors have to fill has been reduced by including payment technologies such as Apple Pay, Google Pay and PayPal, with the information pulled from their digital wallets used elsewhere. Vicky Reeves, managing director of creators, Addition, said there was a	https://addition.london/Products/GoDonate

	“misconception” within the sector that supporters would complete a donation when they visited a charity’s website with the intention of donating. “Statistics show that a significant number of potential donors do not go on to donate,” Reeves said. “They can be put off by a poor user experience, having to complete lengthy forms or having security concerns about submitting their details.” She said that by creating a user-friendly platform these issues had been addressed. “If donors are using payment technologies such as Apple Pay, they will need to complete only the donation amount – if that is not already pre-populated – a consent statement and the Gift Aid declaration,” Reeves said. “So there will be no need for name, address, bank details and so on because those are already known. This reduces the donation process to within three seconds.” Addition created the system after the success of its Enterprise platform, designed for larger charities such as the NSPCC, the Stroke Association and the Alzheimer’s Society. Smaller and medium-sized organisations had expressed interest in a similar system that wouldn’t be as expensive to install. The Fire Fighters Charity began using goDonate at the beginning of March, since when its number of monthly donations has increased by 49 per cent.
Free guide for Charities on Cyber Crime	A guide aimed at helping charities defend digital risk has been published by the specialist insurer Ecclesiastical and the Charities Security Forum. The free Charity Cyber Guide provides organisations with information on the range of cyber threats they could face, from ransomware, malware and denial of service to phishing, password attacks and human error. It also offers practical advice on mitigating such risks, including guidance on protection against data breaches.	https://www.ecclesiastical.com/images/charity-cyber-guide.pdf

	The new guide has been put together after research by the insurer that found 17% of charities had experienced cyber attacks, with ransomware top of the list. 63% expressed concern about cyber and internet crime. Ecclesiastical's charity director, David Britton, said: "After several years of high-profile attacks on larger corporations and businesses, there is now a growing trend of cyber attackers turning their attention towards organisations that might have a lower level of cyber security, including charities. "It's clear from our research that even the threat of an attack is acting as a barrier to some charities innovating, and there's a growing recognition that the long-term reputational damage to the charity and its trustees can be just as serious as the initial loss of data and the costs of putting things right."
Legacy Fundraising	Legacies can be a challenging area for charitable organisations because it can be a difficult and sensitive issue to broach, yet legacies are generally the biggest gifts received by charities from individuals. Gifts in wills are now estimated to be worth £2.8bn a year to UK charities, with the average residual bequest standing at £46,000, according to Legacy Foresight's latest Legacy Giving report. This represents by far the largest source of voluntary income to the sector. Nearly 16% of all charitable legacies are left to animal charities. The Code of Fundraising Practice and its associated Rulebooks for Street, Door and Private Site Fundraising outline the standards expected of all charitable fundraising organisations across the UK. The Code sets out the law and best practice for a range of fundraising techniques. The standards were developed by the fundraising community through the work of the Institute of Fundraising (IoF) and Public Fundraising Association (PFRA), which has now merged with the Institute of Fundraising.	www.RememberaCharity.org.uk

The Legacies section of the Code and Legacy Fundraising guidance establishes a series of criteria to be observed by charities to ensure that legacy fundraising is undertaken in a professional, responsible and sensitive manner.

Remember A Charity is a consortium of over 140 charities which promote legacy giving. Based at the Institute of Fundraising, the group encourage more people to leave gifts to charity in their Will, after looking after their friends and family.

The Institute of Fundraising website has a useful video of an Introduction to Legacy Fundraising, which is free to view.

Remember a Charity offers the following 10 useful tips for effective legacy fundraising. Further information is available on the Remember a Charity website.

19. Be proud of legacies – a legacy may be seen as reflection of someone’s life, values and experiences.
20. Family first – for many people with children, the idea of leaving money to charity could be seen as disinheriting your family. So it is important to use ‘family first’ messaging to overcome this barrier, such as ‘after providing for your loved ones, please consider leaving us a share of what is left’.
21. Drip the message – legacy giving should be seen as a normal act, not as a taboo. It should be part of everyday supporter conversations.
22. Know your audience – think carefully about the groups that are most likely to want to leave a gift to your cause. The more specific you can be the better. This allows you to define your audiences,

	understand their motivations and target them accordingly. 23. Know your story – you need to be able to explain the difference their gift will make. You are asking people to leave a gift that will achieve something big in the future, and you should be able to communicate your legacy message simply. 24. A conversation works best – Research from Remember a Charity shows that if you spend just 45 minutes talking to each of your donors they will actively consider leaving you a gift. 7. Make it easy – one of the inherent problems with legacy fundraising is that making a Will is something we love to put off. So it is important to make it as easy as possible for people to make a Will and leave you a legacy. Consider your website – how is it easy to find your legacy pages or download a copy of your brochure? 25. Use the right language – it can more accessible to talk about ‘gifts in Wills’. Be clear what you mean and avoid jargon (the Institute of Fundraising, from which much of this article is sourced, has produced a jargon-busting briefing to help organisations get to terms with the language of legacy fundraising). 26. Measure what you do – Remember A Charity suggests measuring the volume of your communications, the feedback you receive and the numbers of legacies per year. 27. Look after your supporters – the simplest piece of advice is to treat your supporters well. The warmer they feel about you and the longer the relationship, the more likely they are to consider leaving you a gift.

Lloyd's Bank Foundation Report	This report from the Lloyd's Bank Foundation presents a candid analysis of the ten-upcoming political, economic, social and technological changes which will dramatically affect the operating landscape for the 65,000 small and medium charities working at the heart of communities across England and Wales.	https://www.lloydsbankfoundation.org.uk/Facing%20Forward%20-%202017%20Final.pdf
Charity Governance	Charity trustees need to be able to identify the critical issues – the charity's purposes and plans, its solvency, its resilience and quality of governance – and to be able to review these at regular intervals. The Charity Commission has designed these 15 questions to help charity trustees carry out such a review and decide what they need to focus on. The Commission has also included links to guidance that can help trustees access further information on a particular issue.	https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/charity-trustee-meetings-15-questions-you-should-ask/charity-trustee-meetings-15-questions-you-should-ask
Foundation for Social Improvement – Small Charity Index	The Small Charity Index demonstrates the challenges small charities face in securing funding to deliver the vital services they provide for their local communities. In the years post the 2007/08 financial crisis, funds to support local services, especially from Local Authorities (a statutory source) decreased. Small charities, who deliver local services specifically in the areas of health and social welfare, therefore continue to face a challenging commissioning environment. By tracking the experiences in income generation across statutory, voluntary and earned income sources, this report shows how small charities continue to be affected by economic uncertainty, placing pressure on securing funds to remain sustainable in	http://www.thefsi.org/policyresearch/scindex/

	the long term. New fundraising opportunities have emerged, such as social investment and online giving, however these new opportunities are not necessarily appropriate for all charities, and many continue to struggle to replace the income lost through the austerity cuts and the challenging economic climate. Therefore overall, the Small Charity Index paints a picture of income stagnation, at least for the Small Charity Sector. Free items – Warp It	WARP IT – Free resources for not-for-profits Organisations often have surplus resources which they no longer need but are in good condition. Warp It was created to make sure these items can be passed to organisations carrying out charitable activities in a safe and legal manner. Warp It is free to all charities, not for profit's, social enterprises, community groups and groups which are not commercial but offer a social service. Charities can sign up and, by linking up with local organisations, receive notifications of surplus items in their area. Benefiting organisations do not have to be a charity with a charity number: they just need to be carrying out a social benefit to the community. Charitable groups can benefit from Warp It in a number of ways: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Get access to surplus resources in their area and nationally. This will save you money that can then be spent on charitable activities.</li> <li>• Collaborate and make connections with other organisations in an area.</li> <li>• Furniture and bulky waste charities can distribute their own goods on Warp It for other charities, individuals or organisations to claim</li> <li>• Transport charities can advertise their services for the transfer of goods from one organisation to another</li> <li>• National charities can use the system to advertise their resources around their own networks</li> <li>• Furniture refurbishment charities can advertise their services to members</li> <li>• Furniture and bulky waste charities can advertise their services to members.</li> </ul>	https://www.warp-it.co.uk/charities

Support with your project from University of Bath Students	For the past 5 years Zurich Community Trust (on behalf of the Zurich Life business in the UK) have been working in partnership with the University of Bath's School of Management faculty with the aim of encouraging small teams of students to volunteer their time and/or skills in October and November to add value to local charitable organisations. They have developed this initiative with help from ourselves and the Students' Union Volunteer Office. A member of Zurich's staff who has already completed a successful challenge project will be mentoring each of the student teams. They are currently looking for fairly simple projects that a team of up to 7 students can deliver in November 2017. This could include : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• assisting you in the planning or delivery of an event</li> <li>• pre-Xmas activity planning eg maybe doing a small amount of fundraising to provide Xmas decorations</li> <li>• collating a collection for you eg food or arts and crafts items or good quality items for a charity shop</li> <li>• organising a simple event like afternoon tea for your client group</li> <li>• using their skills – marketing, strategy and planning, finance – to carry out a piece of work for you or provide training</li> <li>• Helping to raise the profile of your charity</li> </ul> The students involved in this scheme are international and will be put into teams of other students that they have probably not met before. Therefore part of their challenge may well include language and cultural barriers, as well as the short time given to deliver the project but they usually really embrace the opportunity and will go above and beyond the brief to deliver a successful event. However, your time will be needed to support them as this is a learning experience for these students and things may go wrong but it's how they then deal with these problems that is a key learning curve for	E-mail: mike.plows@vol-centre.org.uk  Phone: 01225 477115  Mobile 07815 564726 The Volunteer Centre can offer a range of support to community organisations. Your project will be helping them to develop their teamwork, problem solving, communication and leadership skills to name but a few! For an application form, contact Mike Plows at the Volunteer Centre by 31st August 2017. You will need to give as much detail as possible about the challenge and the benefits for you or your client group. You may request as many projects as you like but each one must be on a separate form. The projects will be launched to Bath University students on the 10th October and the student groups then choose which challenge they would like to deliver. Some challenges will not get selected to go through to the final round. However, other groups of students might want to take up some of these projects at a later date.

British Heart Foundation & Alexa	British Heart Foundation has launched an Alexa skill that has made it the first charity to enable supporters to arrange a collection of furniture and electrical items through Amazon Alexa and the first UK charity to receive donations through Amazon Pay. Users of Alexa can simply enable the Alexa skill through the Alexa app or ask through an Alexa-enabled device like Amazon Echo. Then they just need to ask “Alexa, ask British Heart Foundation to collect my furniture,” or “Alexa, open British Heart Foundation and donate money” – from £1 to £250. Alexa skills are free to

Beungo App	Charity app Buengo has released a new version of its iOS app, which allows charities to post volunteering opportunities in its marketplace for good. The marketplace app, which encourages users to donate money to charities by selling things they no longer need, has launched the volunteering feature after users revealed that they would like other ways to get involved with charities. The app aims to become a “platform for good”, where users can connect with charities and good causes, both in their local area and nationally. Adding a volunteering opportunity to the app is completely free for charities once they have signed up (also free) to Buengo. They can then add any type of volunteering opportunity, giving details and encouraging users to either sign up via a link or get in touch to discuss further. Earlier this month, Buengo was nominated as best national digital solution for the United Kingdom for the international World Summit Awards (WSA).	https://www.buengo.com/
Impact App	Over 9,000 charities are currently supported by Impact, the app that helps people give to good causes when they shop. Users register their payment card, and earn rewards when they shop at retailers listed on Impact – both online and instore. The app keeps track of the rewards earned and gives the user the option of cashing them as a donation, which they can give to one of the charities registered with Impact.	https://www.impactapp.org.uk/

Reading the Funding Guidelines: Why You Don't and Why You Should - Advice from Emma Beeston	Ask any funder their top reason for turning down an application and they will say “because the applicant did not read the guidance”. This has sadly been the case for the many years, despite all the training sessions and guides out there for fundraisers. Which begs the question: why don't people read the guidance? Or if they do read it, why do they go ahead and apply anyway even though they don't fit with the criteria. These are the 7 reasons I have come up with. They fall into three categories: one is excusable once; three are operational and the final three relate to a mindset. Not found: People don't always know to look for any guidance. If someone is new to bid writing, then this is fair enough. Hopefully this will be pointed out to them early on and then there is no excuse for making this mistake twice.

Unclear: People can struggle with reading and so it is up to funders to help with this – after all they are trying to fund work that achieves social change not testing literacy. The guidance is not always clear or consistent and can be jargon-rich. Some funders help by being available to talk to potential applicants or using films and webinars to explain their criteria and funding process.

Too tedious: Reading lists of we do fund ... and we don't fund ... do not make for riveting reading. WikiHow has a whole list of ways to tackle boring books aAnd whilst I find their line “think of getting through a boring book as training for life” an incredibly depressing thought, the suggestions they have to take breaks, read away from interruptions, when most awake etc. are all useful.

Too time consuming: Of course, everyone is busy and finding time to read is hard. But this is a classic case of spend time now to save it later. You will save yourself an awful lot of wasted effort if you find out that you are not eligible and there is no point applying.

Disregarded: Treating applications as the end goal can be perpetuated by actual targets set for fundraisers for applications made. Or it can come from the sense that the Trustees and others will judge you if you have not populated a pipeline with many bids. The focus should always be on being effective – so your applications have a good chance of success – and not just volume.

Overlooked: The complacency effect happens where you think you know the guidance already or that you were funded before so must still fit. This can be a mistake where criteria and priorities have changed.

Ignored: Fundraisers are usually wonderfully optimistic and resilient souls and so hope sometimes wins over judgment. There is a danger of putting in a speculative application just in case it might be considered and in other

	cases, passion clouds reality. Because the bid writer is so excited about their work and the difference it makes, they assume that funders will be equally blown away and will make an exception. If you think this applies to you, try a phone call – but only after you’ve read the guidance. Whatever the reason, the advice remains the same – before spending time on writing a bid, you must read the guidance and if you don’t fit with the criteria, don’t just go ahead and apply anyway. Put your precious time into another application, where you have a much better chance of being funded.

Midsomer Norton Men's Shed	The Midsomer Men's Shed Project, part of Midsomer Norton Community Trust, launched on 1st June 2018. "The Shed will provide a place for men and women to come together where they can work on their own or community DIY projects – anything from making a garden planter to repairing a chair. As much as the work in hand, it's being together – working shoulder to shoulder and enjoying the company of others", said Richard Jordan, Community Trust Trustee for the Men's Shed Project. The Men's Shed concept started in Australia where they have been amazingly successful over the last 12 years – to the point where there are 900 sheds across the country. The Australian government has recognised the mental health benefits of Men's Sheds and now provide them with funding from the savings made from the reduced calls on their health service. Men's Sheds are now setting up all over the UK and as such it's great to see that once again our area is at the cutting edge. Membership is open to anyone over the age of 18 and costs £5.00 per annum and £3.00 per visit to the shed. To begin with the Shed will be open each Friday from 9am to	www.midsomermensshed.co.uk

Social Prescribing – Just Do It - An Article from Clarity ‘CIC’	Social prescribing, essentially enabling people to find and use support services in their community that will improve their health and wellbeing, should be going mainstream. It seems to me blindingly obvious that such an approach is a good thing. But much more importantly, there is now considerable evidence that it works. Take a look at the articles on social prescribing on the Healthy London Partnership NHS and the King’s Fund websites (links below). The evidence shows it works for patients, carers and their families and it works for the system. That is, it can save money by reducing hospital admissions and enabling people to stay healthier and independent for longer. It is not difficult to see the logic. The benefits of getting more people to use services that already have a well evidenced track record – be it in mental health, physical fitness, housing, debt management and reducing loneliness doesn’t require a great leap of faith. And yet we are still seeing a lot of effort, and money, going into further research, scoping, modelling and business cases. At the end of last year two next door areas in the South West received separate Life Chances Fund development grants (now closed to Expressions of Interest) to work up proposals for social prescribing in their areas. Thank goodness they are collaborating and I know every area is different (to an extent). But isn’t about time that the money that is available focussed on putting social prescribing into practice? I suspect it is endemic across our culture but there really does seem to be a prevailing “not	http://www.claritycic.org/clearly-news.html https://wiki.healthylondon.org/Social_Prescribing https://www.kingsfund.org.uk/publications/social-prescribing

	evidenced here” syndrome. OK, in many ways Rotherham (a well-recognised social prescribing case study) is very different to, say, Devon. But in both areas: people go to their GP; GPs are generally not well equipped to help people access local support services; the health and care system is under massive financial pressure; and there is a common desire to help people stay healthier and more independent for longer. Of course, the way social prescribing is delivered and how it builds on existing practice and provision will need to be designed to meet local circumstances. But the overall concept is clear, simple and should now be universal. Simon Stevens and Jeremy Hunt need to use their financial and policy levers to make it happen. Formed in 2014, Clarity Clear Solutions for Social Purpose Organisations CIC is a non-profit company limited by guarantee. It provides a skilled resource for the sector, helping organisations solve everyday issues, building resources and adding capacity. New Bill enabling a CIC to convert to a CIO.	Parliament has passed legislation that will enable a Community Interest Company (CIC) and charities with company structures to convert more quickly into a Charitable Incorporated Organisation (CIO). CIOs, which allow charities to enter into contracts as corporate entities with limited liability for trustees and members, were included in the Charities Act 2006. After lengthy delays, they finally became a new legal structure in 2013. Since then 12,500 CIOs have registered with the Charity Commission. This recent legislation will allow charities wishing to convert to do so swiftly as part of a phased timetable (see below) just announced by the Commission. The timetable allows organisations with annual incomes of less than £12,500 to be the first to convert. Organisations with incomes above £500,000 will need to wait until August 2018. The timetable is as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Monday 1 January 2018 for CICs with an annual income of £12,500 or less;</li> <li>• Thursday 1 March 2018 for CICs with an annual income of between</li> </ul>	https://www.gov.uk/guidance/change-your-charity-structure

Matchmaking Service for small businesses seeking finance that have been turned down by banks.	Nine of the UK’s biggest banks have undertaken to pass on the details of small businesses they have rejected for finance to four finance platforms: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Funding Xchange</li> <li>• Business Finance Compared</li> <li>• Funding Options.</li> <li>• Alternative Business Funding Ltd</li> </ul> These platforms will then share these details with alternative finance providers and go on to facilitate a conversation between the business and any provider who expresses an interest in supplying finance to them. The arrangements are designed to make it easier for businesses to access finance when they have been turned down by traditional lenders. RBS, Lloyds, HSBC, Barclays, Santander, Clydesdale and Yorkshire Bank, Bank of Ireland, Danske Bank and First Trust Bank, will all have to offer access to these finance platforms, with small business having to give their permission before their details are shared. The scheme is expected to give businesses additional opportunities to secure funding, alternative providers access to a bigger market of potential clients, and major banks an extra service to offer their business clients	https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/designation-of-banks-and-finance-platforms-for-finance-platforms-regulations

Support with technology	The Dot Project launched the Tech for Good Bath initiative in May 2017. Tech for Good Bath is building a supportive and collaborative community for those interested in technology for social impact. By creating a space for people to gather we hope to inspire and learn from each other, share ideas and collaborate to support organisations across Bath and beyond. We would like to find out more about what organisations and individuals have to offer in terms of technology skills and experience in Bath and surrounding areas. We would also like to assess the technology needs of organisations based in Bath – particularly those working to solve social and community problems. What is the problem we are trying to solve? How might we better map and connect the technology needs of charities, and the social sector with the skills and motivations of the tech for good members in Bath and Bristol?	Website:  https://www.meetup.com/TechForGoodBath/  Twitter:  https://twitter.com/techforgoodbath
Lloyds Bank launches £500 million Growth Fund	Lloyds Banking Group has opened a £500 million pound loan fund to help British businesses finance equipment. Essentially, this is the same £500 million scheme the bank opened a couple of years ago for the agricultural sector, but now its remit has been widened to include manufacturing, construction and transport. The scheme targets small and medium-sized companies which banks froze out of credit following the financial crisis. The bank said the fund will deliver quick access to finance by allowing companies to spread the cost of assets over their lifetime, enabling big investments that don't eat into working capital. The government sees small and medium-sized companies as key to unlocking higher productivity, which has fallen back to below pre-crisis	Interested parties can phone either of the Bank's two 24-hour helpline/contact numbers: 0345 300 0000 or 01733 347 007. PLEASE NOTE: these are not Freephone numbers – calls are charged at a local rate.

Research on mental health and social relationships	Mental illness has huge cost implications for society and the NHS in terms of lost work days and healthcare. Research into the health effect of social networks and interaction could inform cost-efficient mental health initiatives and policies. Depression, anxiety and other psychological conditions cost the UK an estimated £77 billion a year. Experts predict that by 2020 depression will be second only to heart disease as an international health problem. Social isolation has long been known as a key trigger for mental illness, while supportive relationships with friends, family and neighbours are beneficial to the mental health of individuals and the population. Other forms of social interaction such as volunteering are also known to boost wellbeing. People with supportive friends and family generally have better mental and physical health than those who lack these networks. The same is true for those who take part in churches, clubs and voluntary organisations. It is only by analysing people’s lives over time within a structural, social and cultural context that we can establish whether social relationships really do contribute to better health and increased wellbeing – or whether better health and more energy in the first place enable people to invest in relationships with family and friends. Researchers at the ESRC-funded International Centre for Lifecourse Studies In Society and Health have examined how social networks have a positive psychological impact. Attachment theory suggests that people with secure childhoods may be better at relationships of any kind – for instance making friends at school and work, or getting on well with neighbours. This theory can only be tested by looking at information over the span of a person’s life, preferably from birth to old age.	http://www.esrc.ac.uk/news-events-and-publications/evidence-briefings/mental-health-and-social-relationships/

Fundraising Advice – Hold a Fast Party	The idea behind a Fast Party is not to plough through the buffet at a party as quickly as possible, but to ‘fast’ – as in abstaining from eating. A Fast Party is actually a non-event, whereby people are invited to a party that isn’t going to take place. This type of fundraiser works particularly well with well-known charitable organisations with a strong supporter base either locally or nationally. Guests are asked to go without one meal on a specific date and to contribute the money that would otherwise be spend on the meal to your not-for-profit. The advantage of this fundraising idea is that it: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Requires very little organising</li> <li>• Doesn’t require a venue</li> <li>• Has very little financial outlay – all you’re paying for is the cost of the invitations (and you could get a sponsor for this in return for a bit of advertising)</li> <li>• Can be quite easy to obtain sponsorship.</li> </ul> Disadvantages are relatively few. The main drawback is that supporters who may already be contributing to the charity or cause may feel ‘put upon’ by another request for help. It’s also a fundraising idea you should be wary of overusing. It’s okay as a witty, fun one-off activity, but at best this should be an annual event and possibly take place even less frequently. To organise a Fast Party, find a couple or several friends to help write a Guest List and put together an eye-catching, well-designed and witty invitation (for example, ‘Mr and Mrs Smith have pleasure in not requesting your company.....’ or ‘Guests of Honour will not include...’’). You could also print an unappetising menu on the back of the invitation to show ‘participants’ that they’ve had a lucky escape. Include a vegetarian option.

	Print the invitations on good quality card and include a self-addressed envelope or set up an online payment system so that participants can make their financial contribution easily – or you could just pop round to a supporters’ house to collect their donation. Make sure that cheques are made out to the charity or cause rather than to an individual, which could lead you open to criticism or, worse, accusations of fraud. Tickets to the party could be £5 per person, £8 per couple or £10 per family, whatever you think is appropriate for your supporters. The advantage for ‘participants’ is that they don’t have to do anything to participate. A Fast Party enables them to show their support for a cause at a relatively low cost without having to spend much effort, plan, or use up valuable time and effort. In terms of return, most Fast Parties report at least 50% of invitees making a donation. Some may not wish to participate but may still be willing to make a donation. Finally, always send a short thank-you letter, telling donors how the funding will be used and the difference it will make!

Fundraising – Auctions of Promises	Auctions of Promises tend to be most successful when held on the back of another event when equipment and furniture is already available. A good Auction of Promises ( 50 lots takes about an hour to get through if you have a good auctioneer) can often raise £1,000 or more. An Auction of Promises is held on identical lines to a conventional auction, but the 'lots' are quite different. Each lot is a 'Promise', usually written on individual slips of paper and signed and dated by the person offering the promise. Promises are secured by asking around your contacts, private companies or prominent individuals in the community, such as the Mayor or your local MP. It's a good idea to have a wide selection of lots, for example, handmade goods, offers of help, vouchers, special opportunities and donated items. Example of promises can include:

- Theatre tickets
- Having your car(s) cleaned
- A free round of golf
- A week's holiday in a country cottage or an apartment overseas
- A free meal at a local restaurant

To organise an Auction of Promises, follow these steps:

1. Get together a small group of helpers or form a committee;
2. Decide on a date and a venue and apply for an occasional licence if you intend to run a bar, which could usefully increase the amount of funding raised;
3. Find an auctioneer who will ideally volunteer their time. If you can get one, a professional auctioneer will bring a sense of authenticity as well as ensuring the auction moves along at a brisk pace. If someone other than an experienced auctioneer wants to do it. It's essential they have a presence;
4. Proactively seek donations and promises. Make sure you get specific commitments from people or companies. Type up the promises and get them signed before the donor can pull out! Make it clear the offer is available for a limited period only, for instance 6 months or a year.
5. Prepare a catalogue showing images and the running order of all the lots which can be shown online or handed out at the event. It can help if you publish a reserve price for each lot to give participants an idea of where to begin bidding.

To keep things interesting:

Include a Surprise Auction: keep 2-3 popular lots in unmarked envelopes. Announce that the next lot is one of the unmarked promises, but bidders

	won't know which one it is. Participants make 'blind bids' and the successful bidder receives a surprise (it's important not to announce the lots until all have been auctioned). Include a Sealed Bid Auction: this is where you display the lots and make pens, papers and envelopes available. Bidders place their bids in sealed envelopes and place them in a box. The winners are announced at the end of the Promises Auction. It's worth bearing in mind that Sealed Bid Auctions don't generally raise as much funding. At the end of the Auction, try to encourage all successful bidders to pay before they leave. Thank the auctioneer with a bottle of wine and flowers. Make sure you have sufficient volunteers to clear up. After the event, thank your donors, volunteers and successful bidders and let them know how much has been raised and how the funds will be used. Ensure the Auction is reported in the local and social media (this can also be done in real-time during the event), together with the amount raised. An Auction of Promises is a great PR opportunity because you can gain additional publicity as people redeem their promises throughout the 6 months or year. Finally, think about making it an annual event to develop your commercial and public supporter base!

Study into what encourages people to give to charity and what puts people off (and other reports)	NFP Synergy released two reports recently looking at what encourages people to give to charity and what puts people off from giving. The top four factors that encourage people to give are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The charity is clear about what donations are spent on (56%);</li> <li>• Learning about the impact which the charity has (47%);</li> <li>• Positive stories about the charity in the media (37%);</li> <li>• Case stories/stories about individuals that have been helped (33%).</li> </ul> Different age groups tend to be motivated by different factors, so those over 55 years old are more likely to want the charity to be clear about what its donations are spent on, as well wanting more information about impact. In contrast people under the age of 35 want case stories much more than older groups (40%+ for the under 35s vs around 30% for the other age groups), as well as fundraising events to take part in, thank you’s, celebrity endorsements, and volunteering opportunities. All age groups want good stories in the media, and a strong media presence. Donors like to see great case studies and human stories – a clear mix of the information that motivates and inspires, and information that convinces them their donation isn’t being wasted. More interesting perhaps is how young people want more than other age groups: they wanted to be engaged as a whole supporter: to give and to volunteer, to take part and be thanked. WHAT PUTS PEOPLE OFF? The most significant factor that puts people off from giving to charity is the persistence and intrusiveness of fundraising. Irritation with fundraising rises steadily with age, peaking at the 55-64 year old age group. However	https://nfpsynergy.net/free-reports-and-presentations

	fundraising is not the main barrier to people giving. This remains 'too little money actually going to the cause' at 54%. The second highest factor that puts people off from giving is 'too much money spent on staff salaries' at 43%. The reports, along with many other useful resources, are available on NFP's website under the 'Free Resources' tab.
Cyber Attacks	The Charity Commission is urging charities to be 'vigilant' in protecting their organisation from ransomware attacks and to follow protection advice recently issued by the National Cyber Security Centre. The Charity Commission, the independent regulator of charities in England and Wales, warns that the vulnerabilities exploited by the hackers over the last few days are the same for charities as they are for individuals, public or private sector organisations. The following information is relevant to all voluntary, community, and social enterprise (VCSE) organisations across the UK.	https://www.gov.uk/government/news/ransomware-threat-keep-your-charity-safe

Soup Fundraisers	'Soups' are a recent fundraising idea, imported from Detroit in America, that has gathered momentum in the UK over the last 18-24 months and also includes a public vote, although in this instance this is restricted to those attending the Soup event. 'Soup' is designed first and foremost to be a great night out. For £5,	Bath has its own soup organised by the B&amp;NES Volunteer Centre and Midsomer Norton held its first soup in March 2017. audiences get a bowl of fresh, locally made soup, bread and sometimes a small slice of cake and music from local acts. The centrepiece of the night is pitches from local community groups, each getting five minutes to tell people about projects that need funding followed by a quick question and answer. The audience then votes for the one they like best, and the winner gets the pot of donations taken on the door. Successful soup nights often receive support from local businesses which provide in-kind support with soup/bread/cake making. It is not unusual for businesses attending soups to offer those pitching in-kind support, equipment etc whether they win the pot or not.	Edinburgh Soup is very happy to provide advice on how to start a Soup Night. Email: edinburghsoup@gmail.com for information.

Gift Aid	When people donate to a registered charity or a Community Amateur Sports Club (CASC), it's from an income they've usually already been taxed on. Charities can therefore reclaim the equivalent of the basic rate of tax, increasing the value of the donation made. For every £1 donated, the charity can claim an extra 25p, so each £1 can become £1.25 for the cause. There are special rules for: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Funds from sponsored challenges (for example: overseas treks or</li> </ul>	https://www.gov.uk/claim-gift-aid/what-you-can-claim-it-on

You'll also need to make a Gift Aid declaration if you want the organisation to make the claim, and many charities will include this on their donation forms. The giver must confirm that this is a Gift Aid donation and that they have paid enough UK tax to cover the reclaimed amount. You can make a declaration that covers an individual donation, contributions made during the previous six years and all future gifts to an organisation. If you pay more than the basic rate of tax you can benefit from your donation as well. Donors paying 40 per cent tax can claim back the remaining tax for themselves by requesting a P810 Tax Review, or adding it to a Self Assessment tax return.
